in May 2001 the country was gripped by the fate of arctic explorer pen hadow stranded with diminishing supplies on the ice cap after successfully reaching the pole despite severe setbacks he walked skied and swam for two months to fulfil a lifetime's dream this is his story in March 2014 Eric Larsen and Ryan Waters set out to traverse nearly 500 miles across the melting arctic ocean unsupported from northern Ellesmere Island to the geographic north pole despite being one of the most cold and hostile environments on the planet the arctic ocean has seen a steady and significant reduction of sea ice over the past seven years due to climate change because of this Larsen's and Waters' trip dubbed the last north expedition is expected to be the last human powered trek to the north pole ever filled with stunning full color photos and GPS maps plotting his progress on thin ice is Larsen's first person account of this historic two man expedition traveling across the retreating sea ice on skis snowshoes and even swimming through semi frozen arctic slush Larsen and Waters each pulled over 320 pounds of gear behind them on sleds through temperatures that plummeted to nearly 70 degrees below zero at times they covered little over a mile a day they were stalked by polar bears and ran out of food it was in Larsen's words easily one of the most difficult expeditions in the world more than just a heart stopping adventure narrative however on thin ice offers an intimate and haunting look at the rapidly changing face of the arctic due to global climate change
